Do you want to be part of a unique international Institute's science team ?

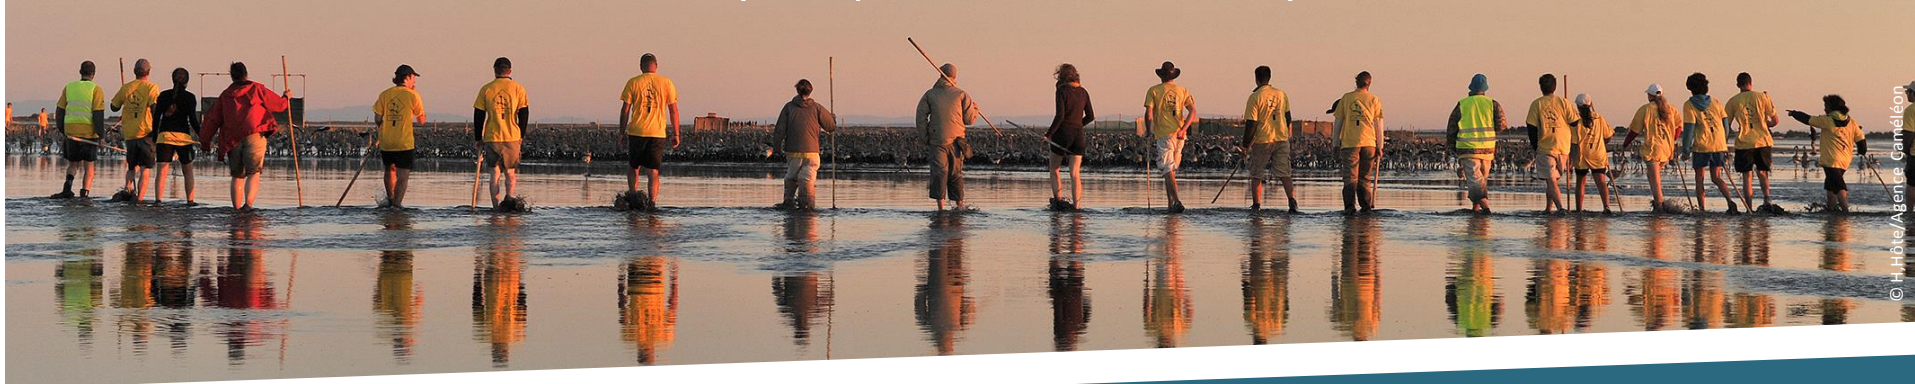

Are you passionate about environmental conservation, and keen to work in a friendly multicultural team ?

We are looking for 4 European volunteers to become part of our 3 thematic teams :

The volunteers will work for one of our projects, depending on the needs of the different teams and on the volunteer's personal interests.

If you enjoy meeting people from different countries and living in a community in a remote biodiversity hotspot, this mission is for you !
